

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In electronic camera and other applications, the reproduction of image or other data is controlled according to day and time information related to the time of taking a picture, or otherwise recording data. In reproduction, the reproduction images are reproduced in the order determined by the date of the recording data being contained in the reproduction object, for instance, with the latest date being reproduced first.

[illegible]